MISCELLANEOUS.

Spiritual Presence.

BY J. H. PERKINS.

It is a beautiful belief,
That ever round our head
Are hovering on noiseless wing
The spirit of the dead.

It is a beautiful belief,
When ended our career,
That it will be our ministry
To watch o'er others here;

To lend a moral to the flower,
Breathe wisdom on the wind,
To hold communion at night's lone hour,
With the imprisoned mind;

To bid the mourners cease to mourn,
The trembling be forgiven:
To bear away from ill of clay
The infant to its heaven.

Ah! when delight was found in life,
And joy in every breath,
I cannot tell how terrible
The mystery of death.

But now the past is bright to me,
And all the future clear,
For 'tis my faith, that after death
I shall still linger here.

Polk Against the Tariff:
The following extract from a Speech delivered by JAMES K. POLK before the People of Madison county on the 3d day of April, 1843, will show that he is and always has been, an uncompromising opponent of PROTECTIVE TARIFF:

"The difference between the course of the political party with which he [Mr. MILTON BROWN] acts and myself is, whilst they are the advocates of Distribution and a Protective Tariff—measures which I consider ruinous to the interests of the country, and especially to the interests of the Planting States—I have steadily and at all times opposed both."

"I have no hesitation in declaring, that I am in favor of the IMMEDIATE REANNEXATION OF TEXAS to the territory and Government of the United States."

James K. Polk to the citizens of Cincinnati April 28, 1844.

The Nashville Union, the organ of Polk and Jackson, holds the following language:

"We wish it borne in mind, that the oppressive tariff of 1842 has been condemned by every true democrat, and by none more decidedly than Mr. Van Buren. That its provisions are viewed with abhorrence by Governor Polk and all his friends we need not repeat."

Farmers look here!
"The Wool-Growers consider the duty upon foreign wool as important to their prosperity. This opinion is founded in error!"—James K. Polk.

"My opinion is that WOOL should be duty free!"—James K. Polk.

Operation of the Tariff—Mr. Woodbury's Position.

The Hon. Levi Woodbury during the last session of the Senate made a sweeping speech against the whole Protective policy of our Government, and the operations of the Whig Tariff of 1842.—Hon. Senator Simmons of Rhode Island, replied to him, and by his close examination of the statements of Mr. Woodbury and an appeal to facts compelled Mr. Woodbury to acknowledge several times that he had mistook not only the features of several of the preceding tariff acts but several recent facts. But nothing daunted, Senator Woodbury comes to our city and here preaches over what he probably considered the most taking part of his speech, blunders and all, to the Democracy of Maine. He represented the operation of the Tariff as particularly oppressive upon the interests of this State, and to prove his position he took the case of iron. This article he remarked "is protected by a whig tariff. It lays an enormous duty of eighty to one hundred per cent." The consequence of this, he argued is, that an article of iron cost just that amount more than it would cost if there were no duty upon it. The duty is so much added to the cost of the article protected. He went into a calculation to show how much the people in Maine have to pay to protect the interests of people in other States, interested in iron, "three hundred miles off." "It may be assumed," he said "that every individual in this State uses at least twenty five pounds of iron each year. For each pound he has to pay at least two cents more than he would have to pay even with a horizontal duty of twenty five or thirty per cent upon it. This last amount he was willing to allow for the purpose of revenue, been for the Whig Tariff, 25 cents, would have for he said, Free-trade is willing to allow duties been a great price. [Auburn Jour.

We are desired to state for the information of the numerous patrons, in this vicinity, of this notable and praiseworthy periodical, that the July number has been received by the agent in this city, Mr. Bugbee, and also the back numbers ordered. The July number will afford a pleasant treat to many readers. We open the pages of this work with different sensations from what we experience with any other book. We think of the writers—of their labors—their struggles in self-cultivation—the heart-sickening distrust many of them must feel and have felt in giving their productions into the hands of the printer. We rejoice to see them making progress. We are astonished at their success. They furnish a fact of untold importance for the encouragement of all who are struggling for a higher intellectual life. May the fact never be less potent.

A fine lot of Wool was purchased in this county the other day at 45 cents per pound! Had it not been for the Whig Tariff, 25 cents, would have been for he said, Free-trade is willing to allow duties been a great price. [Auburn Jour.

he continued, 25 cents multiplied by 600,000 the number of inhabitants in the State at the census gives $3,000,000 which we have to pay for protecting the interests of other States—The consequence is, that when we buy one shovel now, we have to pay for two; when we buy a pot for fifty cents we have to pay another fifty cents for protection and so with flat-irons. [How this is done we do not clearly understand.] "Suppose" he said "a tax gatherer should go into the kitchen and demand of our wives, after they had paid fifty cents for the pot, another fifty cents for protection, why they would be justified in throwing hot water in his face?"

We have here given a brief and correct view of a portion of Mr. Woodbury's speech in Bangor on the Fourth of July. It will be seen that he assumes that the duty laid on an article is so much added to the cost of the article to the consumer, and upon this assumption all his reasoning is based and his conclusions drawn. Now if it be shown that his premises are wrong that his assumption is false then all his conclusions must inevitably fall.

Mr. Woodbury has not only stated his general doctrine but he descended to particulars and enumerated flat irons among other things. Now this very article of flat irons shows not only the falsity of his assumption, but at the same time illustrates the operation of the policy of protecting American industry. Prior to the tariff of 1842, British manufacturers held the complete monopoly of the American market in flat irons. Several attempts had been made to manufacture them in this country, but the moment they appeared in the market, the agents of British manufacturers run their price below what they could be made for and instantly crushed the efforts of the American manufacturers to introduce them. The substantial Protection on this article afforded by the tariff of 1842, gave a decided advantage to the American manufacturers and they commenced making the article and selling at the regular price charged by British agents. By throwing into the market a better article than the English, at the same price, and under such circumstances as to prevent, on account of the duty, British agents from dropping the price of their articles in the hope of crushing the American product, the American workmen were thus enabled to command the market. The manufacture was pushed in Rhode Island and Pennsylvania until now; instead of an increase of price of an hundred per cent. as Mr. Woodbury argued, they are now sold at a much less price.

The regular wholesale price of English flat irons in 1842 and for a number of years previously, was one hundred and ten dollars a ton. The present price for a better article of American manufacture is ninety dollars a ton.

Here is an enumeration of the prices of various articles of iron at various places in the years mentioned.

At Philadelphia in	1841	1842
Flat Irons,	6½ cts.	3½ cts.
Axes,	gl5 to gl6,	11 to gl3
At New York.
Iron Avails per lb.	9½	8½
Shovels,	9½	7½
Wire not exceeding No 14,
Per lb.	7½	5½
Nails cut "	5½	4½
Brads from ½ to 2 in. per M 13		7
Bars common Eng. rolled, 7½		5½

These facts thoroughly explode Mr. Woodbury's premises that duty on an article necessary enhances the price of that article to the consumer. We must refer to this subject again.

Mr McDuffie's Speech—Policy of Locofo-coism.

We commence the publication of the speech of Mr. McDuffie of South Carolina to the Richmond Virginians. It is unusual for us to publish speeches from men of opposing political sentiments but this speech of Mr. McDuffie in conjunction with the speech of Mr. Woodbury in this city, the late letter of Mr. Rhett of South Carolina and the proceedings of the late Baltimore Loco Convention, seem to us to furnish a graphic picture of the design and wishes of the leaders of the loco party, and to open a policy, into which, if possible, they intend to bring their whole party and the American people. The speech itself with all its arrogance and bluster with its slanderous aspersions on the northern people we have thought best to publish, that our readers may know the whole story and be prepared to act with an energy and zeal which is the course of the loco leaders demands. If the great mass of the honest hearted men in the loco party, under the impression that it is the Democratic party of the country, could have their prejudices removed and see clearly the designs of their leaders and the tendency of their policy they would shrink from acting in conjunction with them, as from a viper, which if warmed would sting the vitals of true republicanism and personal independence.

Henry Clay—A Republican of tried virtue—a statesman of unrivaled fame—he has withstood the rage of party rancor unflinched, and by his wisdom, firmness, and conciliation has conducted his country through the storms of contending factions with peace and safety. The people impatiently wait to confer upon him the reward of patriotism.

The Ladies. The only Northern Whigs in favor of Annexation. May they by the force of their sweet persuasion convert all the bachelors to that doctrine as they understand it.

LOWELL OFFERING.

We are desirous to state for the information of the numerous patrons, in this vicinity, of this notable and praiseworthy periodical, that the July number has been received by the agent in this city, Mr. Bugbee, and also the back numbers ordered. The July number will afford a pleasant treat to many readers. We open the pages of this work with different sensations from what we experience with any other book. We think of the writers—of their labors—their struggles in self-cultivation—the heart-sickening distrust many of them must feel and have felt in giving their productions into the hands of the printer. The independent and sturdy Whigs paraded the Fourth of July in fine style by a procession, oration, music, and a free combination &c. The arrangement were all made with great skill and executed in excellent style.

In this procession, the young men between the ages of 18 and 21 years of age, carried a banner with this inscription—

COURAGE, WHIGS,
WE ARE AT HAND.

A band of younger boys bid upon their banner—

WE WAIT OUR TIME.

A large company of little fellows, blithe and gay marched boldly onward under the inscription—

HOLD ON, WHIGS,
UNTIL WE GROW UP,

A staging was built at the window of the new & large church in the village for the accommodation of the Orator. All the seats in the church were occupied by the women—the men having seats outside the church.

The services were, Singing of Anthems, by the Choir,

Prayer by the Rev. Mr. Gilpatrick,

Reading of the Declaration of Independence by B. W. Hinckley, Esq.,

Oration by Governor Kent.

The Collation was prepared in a beautiful Orchard beneath an ample tent. The table was spread for more than a thousand persons and was more than occupied. The utmost satisfaction was felt at the generous provision made for the wants of all, and the elegant style in which the whole affair was conducted.

The company at the table was addressed by Hon. Thomas Robinson and Charles Lowell, Esq. of Ellsworth, Pearl Spofford, Esq. of Deer Isle, and others. Their remarks were received with much favor by the large company present, and they were repeatedly applauded.

This celebration was upon Temperance principles and the company of the women was found altogether superior in giving the right spirit and enthusiasm than the influence of wine.

The following regular toasts were announced and a large number of volunteers offered, which have not been furnished to us.

REGULAR TOASTS.

The Day we Celebrate.—Associated with the grateful and perpetual remembrance of the names of all those whose patriotism and eloquence, and services and sacrifices, have rendered it illustrious.

Washington.—His name is our country's highest boast. His fame, her proudest monument. His memory her dearest legacy. May we never forget his advice, nor cease to practice from his principles.

Our Revolutionary Fathers.—May their great example inspire us with the resolution to be free—indepedent, not only of the Governments, but also of the industry and influence of foreign nations.

John Hancock.—May his indomitable Whig spirit and love of liberty animate this county of Hancock—and may the same patriotism actuate them in penning their votes as incited him when he placed his famous signature to the Declaration of Independence.

Henry Clay.—A Republican of tried virtue—a statesman of unrivaled fame—he has withstood the rage of party rancor unflinched, and by his wisdom, firmness, and conciliation has conducted his country through the storms of contending factions with peace and safety.
